8- Paragraph

1. A sports event you watched

(حدث رياضي شاهدته)

Last week, I watched a very exciting football match on TV. It was the final match between Egypt and Senegal. I watched it with my family at home. All the players were very fast and strong. They showed great teamwork and amazing skills. The match was very difficult, but Egypt played very well. The fans in the stadium were cheering loudly and waving flags. In the end, our national team won the match. I felt very happy and proud of my country. I think that sports are very important because they bring people together. It was a day I will never forget.

2. Life in the past and life nowadays

(الحياة في الماضي والحياة في هذه الأيام)

Life in the past was very different from life nowadays. In the past, life was very simple and slow. People used to travel on horses and camels. They didn't use to have electricity, cars, or the internet. People used to work very hard in farms and spent more time with their families. Nowadays, life is very fast and more comfortable. We use modern technology like computers and mobile phones. We can travel anywhere by planes and fast trains. Technology makes our life easier and helps us to learn many things. In my opinion, life nowadays is better because we have more medical care and modern inventions.

Keeping our traditions is very important for every society. Traditions tell us about our history and where we come from. They connect the past with the present. When we follow our traditions, we feel proud of our country. For example, traditions teach us how to respect old people and how to help others. They also help to build a strong community. Children can learn many good values from their parents through traditions. We should teach our traditions to the new generations. This makes our national identity stronger. In the end, traditions are like a bridge that connects us to our ancestors.

Egypt has many amazing traditions. One of the most important traditions is hospitality. Egyptians are very famous for being kind and friendly to guests. Families go to parks and eat colored eggs and salted fish. These traditions go from one generation to another. They bring people together and make them happy. Following these traditions is a way to show our love for our country and our history. I am very proud of Egyptian traditions.

8. (Paragraphs)

1. A Story of Courage and Survival

Courage and survival are very important in our life. One of the best stories about survival is "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea". In this story, Professor Aronnax and his friends were trapped on a submarine. They faced many dangers like giant monsters and deep oceans. They had to stay calm and work as one team to stay alive. They used their wisdom to solve problems. This story teaches us that bravery is not about not being afraid, but about facing your fears. If you have loyalty to your friends and a good strategy, you can overcome any challenge. Survival needs quick thinking and strong tools like a compass or a torch.

2. My favorite character in "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea"

My favorite character in the story is Professor Aronnax. I like him because he is a very wise and curious scientist. He loves discovering new sea creatures and artifacts. Even when he was a prisoner on the Nautilus, he used his time to learn about the secrets of the ocean. He is a brave man because he went on an underwater walk in the Crespo forest. He is also a loyal friend to Conseil and Ned Land. He always thinks carefully before making a choice. I admire his wisdom and his love for science. He teaches us that learning is a great adventure.
